Anthony DeCanti graduated from the College of Arts and Sciences in 2007 with his associate’s degree and summa cum laude in 2010 with a bachelor of science in computer science.

DeCanti is dedicated to his family and is committed to local and international community and leadership within his profession. He currently serves as the chief information officer and senior vice president of information technology for UniGroup, a global logistics and specialized transportation company in Fenton, Missouri.

DeCanti is a 20-year veteran of the transportation industry with more than 15 years of experience in information technology management. As a leader with substantial responsibility and oversight in his organization, he continues to find time to share his gifts and talents with the local, regional and international community.

DeCanti is a kind, thoughtful and accomplished alumnus who exemplifies the Creighton mission through his service to programs such as the Heartland Family Service, Omaha Step Out and USA Boxing. During his time at Creighton, DeCanti took part in a mission trip to Mali where he played a key role in improving services provided by hospitals for women and children, which included securing donations of computer hardware, software, telecommunications and other IT needs.

DeCanti and his wife, Stacy, have three daughters who are all active in their local church and community. DeCanti served in the United States Marine Corps from 1988 to 1990 and in 2008 he was inducted into the Jesuit Honor Society, Alpha Sigma Nu.

For his dedication to his family and for his commitment to the communities he serves, Creighton University is proud to confer upon Anthony DeCanti the 2016 College of Professional Studies Alumni Merit Award.
