FIRST RALLY BIG SUCCESS COMES NOW THE STUDENT UNION

Students and Alumni Gather to Inaugurate New Year.

With an attendance of over two thousand, including men highly prominent in business and professional circles of Omaha, and with a display of "pep" and enthusiasm unprecedented in the annals of Creighton University, the faculty, alumni and under-graduate students met in a monster Rally at the gymnasium last Friday night and auspiciously introduced the biggest football and athletic year of the University. Sponsored by the new Creighton Students' Union the Rally evinced an enthusiasm and spirit that was indicative of an impending era of expansion and success that in a few years will assure the "Hilltop" School of a reputation as a great educational institution of the Middle West.

From the moment Chairman Mr. Frank Sheehan sounded the keynote of the night's festivities in the opening address the interest of the throng was captivated and remained actively alert throughout the entire evening. The program of the evening consisted briefly of short, "snappy" talks, entertainers, and the final "buffet lunch," and was carried on so smoothly that those in charge of the affair deserve a good deal of praise for the arrangements and the unimpeded progress of the show.

It was truly a grand sight to see the old boys meeting again to recount the pleasures of their college days while the students, full of "pep" and energy fairly rocked the Gym with their united cheers, shouts and yells. This good will and "al Creighton pep" was the order of the evening and continued unabated until the last student had demolished his doughnuts and "Java" and the boys betook themselves to their respective abodes.

At 8:30 the Creighton University band led by their excellent cornetist, Otto, started with a blare of brass and played "On Old Creighton," while the students joined in singing the words and the evening was on. Directly after the song our popular, sleek-looking cheerleaders, Leo Bolan, "Count" Kelly, and Herb Lichtenberger, entered the arena and released some of the high-tensioned animation of the students by leading them through a few cheers that shook the hall.

Chairman Sheehan then started the ball a-rolling by mentioning in a few words the significance of the occasion and the new epoch of a greater Creighton, both in size and athletics, of which this meeting was the beginning. Furthermore, "The purpose of the Rally is to get all Creightonians familiar with our reorganized athletics and to ask their support, especially the Alumni, at all times."

Coming the Freshmen to Creighton, President McCormick, in a short address announced the extensive plans of the Union, for the completion of which the "Two Million Dollar Drive" will be launched next spring. "Creighton University has outgrown the financial means of its liberal founders, and the time has come, for the first time in the history of the institution, when we must depend on the generosity of the people of Omaha and the Alumni to provide adequate buildings in order to keep pace with the enrollment which has increased last two years has grown by leaps and bounds. "The new Athletic Organization, the impending football season, and the Students' Union also came in for mention by the Rev. President as deserving of instinted support. Speaking of the Union he said, "It is a wonderful organization and we can look for great things in store for the University. The Athletic department felt this reaction, and Creighton had its first "big calibre" football team. The student body could not expect to remain inactive when things were on the move; those in close touch with under-graduate affairs felt that something was about to occur. Live students in all departments meanwhile began a study of student problems in

Dream of Past Classes Realized in New Student Organization

To carry the story of the Creighton University Union, nine short months ago, would have been an easy task. Not a single line of paper could have been needed to tell the story of the Union, its conception, completed plans, present realities and future plans. It would have been a volume.

In September of 1921, our student body floated over the Cam-things in store for the University. The Athletic department felt this reaction, and Creighton had its first "big calibre" football team. The student body could not expect to remain inactive when things were on the move; those in close touch with under-graduate affairs felt that something was about to occur. Live students in all departments meanwhile began a study of student problems in other universities, and a definite conclusion was reached: Creighton needs a solidified student body.

It remained for our contemporary the Chronicle to voice this urgent need. The January Chronicle featured the manner in which Marquette, a university with problems very similar to our own, met the situation. Should Creighton adopt this plan, was the next step to be decided.

On a Sunday late in January, a meeting of all class presidents, throughout the university, was held at the Omaha Athletic Club. Only two or three men in the university knew its purpose. At this meeting a thorough discussion of student government was carried on. Each president was instructed to call his class together, to elect a class representative.

These representatives, who were to serve as a "ways and means committee" on student government, met the following Sunday at the Athletic Club. The personnel was formed of leaders in every department, men who realized the responsibility of their work. Mr. Charles B. Moriarty was elected chairman of this committee. At the next meeting, the Union plan of government was decided upon and the committee automatically became the Creighton Union Organization Committee. Its biggest task was yet to be entered on—the drafting of a constitution and its adoption by the student body. Weekly committee meetings were held; after a month and a half of intensive work, the committee was ready for the students to pass judgment upon its labors.

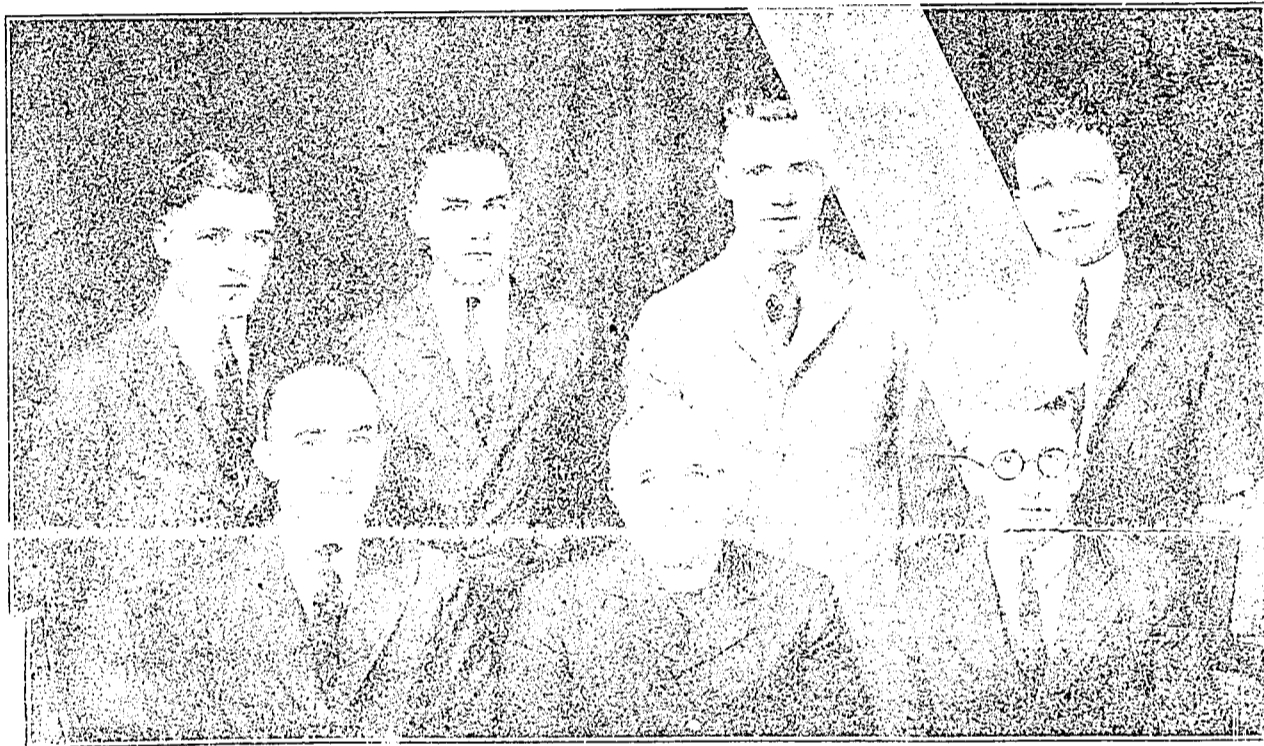

The peppy smoker held on St. Patrick's eve, 1922, has gone down in Creighton history, as a worthy achievement. The proposed constitution, was presented to students, and alumni at this meeting and its unanimous adoption followed. President McCormick, in behalf of Creighton University, pledged his heartiest co-operation. With the support of both student body and faculty, its success was unquestioned.

The work of the organization committee was, as yet, uncompleted. For the present, it was to serve as a controlling body of the Union, until such time as an election could be held. It did not wish to undertake any special work during this period, feeling that it might compromise the efforts of those, who would be elected to the first Board of Governors. Its work was centered, therefore, in keeping the Union before the student body, and in dwelling upon the fact that care should be taken in selecting the best students of the university for this body.

The committee, however, was compelled to act in one matter,—the sending of a representative to the Mid-West Student Conference at the University of Kentucky in Lexington. As this conference, composed of every "Big Ten" university and many of the Missouri Valley and Southern Conference universities, was a most important assembly, Creighton felt she should accept the invitation sent her. Means were lacking but through arrangements made by Dean Grace of the Arts department funds were advanced by the University Treasurer. The committee decided

WHO'S WHO ON THE UNION GOVERNING BOARD

Albert Stevens, offers this brief history of those who are on the Union governing board for the benefit of those new members who have not yet had the opportunity to make their acquaintance, and of those old students who do not know the members personally. Albert Stevens, President of the Union, is from Butte, Montana. After finishing his education in the parochial schools of that city, he entered Gonzaga College, Spokane. This was in September, 1907. His high school and collegiate days were spent here. Before graduating as an A.B. in the college, Stevens had held the following positions and honors: President of the Sociality, Junior Class President, President of Debating Society, and winner of the Annual Public Debate in 1912. During the war, Stevens spent eighteen months in the service of the government, entering the Army at Camp Lewis, August 31. He was promoted to First Sergeant, and assigned to the Field Artillery Training School at Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Kentucky. Here he reported and after the scheduled prescribed courses, was commissioned Second Lieutenant, First South Carolina, and was attached to the Thirty-sixth Regiment as commanding officer.

DANCE IN HONOR OF FRESHMEN

Union First Affair to be in Charge of New Men

Stop! Look! Listen! Ye toiling sons of the Union. On next Saturday evening, October seventh, a general strike will be called. All books will be set aside, and every Unionist accompanied by his best girl will start towards the Gym. For next Saturday Evening will witness the Union's Oriental Ball in honor of the Freshmen of Creighton University.

Plans are already under way to make this party the grandest and biggest social event in the history of the student body. The board of directors have left no stone unturned, and have spared no expense in order to make the affair a huge success. The famous "Jaz-Classique" dance band has been engaged to furnish the oriental music. The spacious Gym will be gorgeously decorated to suit the occasion.

The purpose of the dance is to afford an opportunity for the Freshmen to become acquainted with the upper-classmen. In order to attain this end it is imperative that the Freshmen of every department be at the Gym that night.

That the Union does things right will be quickly admitted when the members realize that no admission is to be charged. Just show your Union Card.

HAMLIN GAME NEXT

The Hamline university gridiron eleven will journey to Omaha Saturday to meet none less than our Blue and White hopes in the second contest on Creighton's schedule.

Let the poor dopsters who have been harping on the "set-up" appearance of the Blue and White schedule swallow this chunk of information from last year's records.

The Hamline team last year won every one of their seven-game schedule, piling up 162 points to their opponents 5. Carleton, St. John's, St. Thomas and North Dakota were numbered among the victims.

Hamline has produced some of the brightest grid stars in Minnesota's history and the St. Paul institution has always been respected up north for its powerful elevens.

This year they will come with a veteran outfit and a healthy determination to tip off Creighton in the first contest ever staged between the two teams. If Creightonites think we are due for an easy win, they have one more guess coming!

It is apparent then, that every true Creighton student who now proudly flaunts his diamond-shaped Union emblem will be there with the never-ceasing "bells on," and make the old hill-top reverberate with cheers for the boys who will battle for the Blue and White.

EDITORIAL

The function of a newspaper has been described by someone as the fresh, timely and interesting presentation of news. Add to this an intelligent interpretation of the more important items and you have a fair sample of the modern newspaper. This the Creightonian will endeavor to be at all times.

A student paper has, however, additional functions. It must serve as a sounding board for the undergraduate body. As it is the property of the students, it must serve them to the best of its ability. The Creightonian must, likewise, act as the mouthpiece of the Union.

At Creighton a student paper is a new experiment, but one that has proven successful in other colleges. The Creightonian, therefore, sets out on its course, with the brightest of hopes and the loftiest of ambitions.

In every large university the interest of the student body centers around its newspaper. These are published in some schools weekly, in others daily. The editors regret very much that conditions at this time will not warrant the publishing of a daily paper. Creighton is handicapped in that it has no school of journalism, without which a daily newspaper is impossible. For the unceasing efforts, which students of journalism alone are in a position to exert; are absolutely essential to the publishing of a school daily.

It is our desire to publish news of those events which are of interest to the men at Creighton. To do this we require the active assistance of every student. We want the members of the Union to regard this as their publication—not as a faculty organ. We know that things which would interest and perhaps amuse the entire student body generally will reach the editors. We therefore appeal to every college man to let us know anything and everything which, in his opinion, may be of interest to the Union.

The present staff is merely temporary. The necessity of immediate action prompted the board of governors in making their choice from among those men who were known to be of some experience. It is not improbable that the best journalists have not yet been found. In order that the Creightonian may not be permanently deprived of their valued assistance we appeal to them to have no hesitancy in submitting articles or notes. Only in this way can the Creightonian benefit.

In short then, we appeal to those finer sentiments which actuate the great majority of the men at Creighton. Many an error will be found in this, our first issue. Perhaps our columns will not contain news that should be found therein. If such be the case we can only say that we have done our level best, and we trust that with the succeeding issues our news-collecting agencies will have become more efficient. Suggestions will always be appreciated, and friendly criticism acknowledged, and we respectfully request that the weapon of destructive criticism be left sheathed until the Creightonian is able to defend itself by presenting to unjust criticism an honorable and successful reputation.

First Student: "Is that horse of yours timid?"
Second Student: "Not at all. . . he frequently spends the night by himself in a dark stable."

LAW SCHOOL BACKS UNION

The Onward Creighton movement has advanced one more step now that the Student's Union is a reality. With the issuance of this paper, the Union is proceeding to move in its proper sphere and is beginning to mould that for which it was organized—a true University spirit. In this undertaking and in all of its future undertakings, the Law College wishes to take this opportunity of congratulating the Union and assuring it that it has the hearty support and co-operation of the faculty and students of the College of Law.

The Law College opened as per usual with the majority of last year's undergraduates back in the harness and with a host of new faces. This year's registration far exceeds that of any year in the history of the Law College. Dean L. J. TePoeil says that this unprecedented growth is remarkable in face of the fact that the two-year pre-legal requirement, instead of the one year heretofore required for entrance, went into effect this year. This year's graduating class is also the largest senior class that ever strove to secure their sheep-skins since the founding of the Law College. Many men who contemplated going East concluded that a Creighton diploma was as good as that of any other school in the country. This accounts for the extremely large senior class. The faculty has been adequately enlarged to cope with the situation by the addition of four new professors. They are as follows: Merton L. Corey, Amos E. Henely, Harvey M. Johnson, and Edward F. Leary.

CHARVAT HEADS ORATORICAL

Francis C. Charvat was elected president of the Arts College Oratorical Association at the first meeting of the year on September 20. Mr. Charvat has been an active member of the association for several years, and in view of his personal popularity his election was not unexpected. John J. Flanagan was elected treasurer and Stephen A. Spitznagle Secretary.

As it was the first meeting of the year no formal debate was held, and the entire meeting was devoted to business. It was announced that a picked team will represent Creighton in an inter-collegiate debate at either St. Louis or Chicago early in December. Full details regarding the debate and the personell of the Creighton team will be announced in next week's "Creightonian."

The first formal debate of the year has been set for the evening of October 12. The participants are Messrs. Spitznagle, Springman, Flanagan, and Foley. The disputed question will be Federal ownership of railroads.

GOVERNING BOARD

things from them; from rallies such as this there will grow up and flourish a new spirit of which we see the beginning here tonight."

Mr. Schabinger, the Director of Athletics, followed with a few words on things athletic and finished by appealing to the boys for support in his plans. The deafening clamor and shouts that followed amply convinced all of his popularity with the boys and the backing he will receive from them. Here Mr. Schabinger introduced Mr. Stevens, the Union President. In a brief talk President Stevens spoke favorably of the new organization and in concluding said he hoped eventually to make the Union "a factor of pride to the faculty and alumni."

Chas. B., "Chuck" Marearty, the aggressive and efficient business manager of the Union was likewise introduced by Mr. Schabinger. "Chuck" was rather busy for he didn't even make a speech but rushed right back and continued to supervise the cutting of cheese for the sandwiches.

A colume of applause that must have re-echoed from Council Bluffs was accorded the ever-popular Mac Baldige as he took the floor to say his "few" words. Being the football coach, he naturally talked football only, informing the crowd of the hard, relentless and strenuous practice the boys on the team go through, for no other reward than that of adding to the athletic laurels of Creighton, and asking for no other recompense than the moral support of the rooters. He did not become fatigued and predict an overwhelmingly successful season, but he assured the boys plenty when he said, "You'll have a jam out there with 'guts' spirit, and at every game. "Mac" then introduced his able assistant, "Chick" Nevil who in his few remarks practically expressed all his boss had said.

Chairman Sheehan now turned the floor announcing that Saturday, November 18th would be the Annual Homecoming Game with the Minigan Aggies and asked all the Alumni to be present for the day's festivities.

The Keno Quartette, to next event on the program, sang a few songs to the crowd and displayed some pleasing harmony that had the boys yelling more.

"Tip" Long, attelitte of Creighto 1921 gridiron team followed with so original and clever songs accompan himself on the piano. His throbt voice pleased so well, that he had to two encores before the boys let desist.

The Hon. Judge Fitzgerald, C Alumnus, in his short spee Creigh crowd laughing and the been had the anecdotes he recalled of his gric days at Creighton long ago.

Judge Sears and Jim Hanely who attending the rally were now introduced and received with great acclamation by the boys.

As the last thing on the program before lunch, four boxing bouts took place in the arena. They were replete with fast, snappy action and good, two-fisted punching. The third bout especially was interesting, both boys going at it "tooth and nails," and neither of them yielding an inch, which had the crowd on edge throughout, shouting for a knockout.

The real crowning point or climax of the night's festivities so eagerly awaited, was of course the big. All lined up and in remarkably fast time received all the delicious cheese sandwiches, doughnuts and coffee they could successfully dispense with. The orderly way the crowd was handled and the expeditious service showed how completely and thoroughly the arrangements committee had provided.

of Supply Company. His honorable discharge came in 1918. In September 1919, Stevens enrolled in the College of Dentistry, and in that year he was made President of the Dental Freshmen. Mr Stevens was chosen by the Creighton University Union to represent Creighton at the Mid-West Student's Conference of Colleges and Universities at Lexington, Kentucky, and there he succeeded in gaining information that would help to solve some of the problems confronting the Union. Needless to say, "Bert" possesses the power as an organizer on big scale, and his host of friends both inside and outside the University attests his pleasing personality.

CREIGHTON DEFEATS S. D. WESLEYAN

Close Contest Marks Annual Meeting

The old Blue and White 1922 gridiron eleven plunged away to a flying start on their fall grid campaign program by turning back the Dakota Wesleyan university team, 7 to 0, in a smashing exhibition of the chilly season sport at Creighton field Saturday afternoon. The greatest attendance ever registered at a Blue and White schedule opener witnessed the Hilltoppers' first victory.

Coach "Bud" Dougherty's Coyote pack was far from the expected easy "meat," and it took a raft of grilling line defense by the local collegians to intain their advantage in the statistical column.

The Blue backs did some spasmodically brilliant pile-drives through the Dakota barricade, and spiced the show with a brace of thrilling flank-dashes, although consistency seemed lacking in the Hilltop advances, just enough to worry followers of the Creighton clan at the start.

But it was a typical Baldrige fighting machine, and the speedy Neville ramming combinations crumpled the Dakota line at times with a ferocity of attack that was pretty to see.

The old reliable, "Lew" Lane, who yelped the numerals for the first time, skipped through the Coyotes for a few mighty marches toward the goal, and handled the team in true general form. It was he who hurled the leather pellet to Captain Bendelage for the only and winning touchdown.

The surprise came at the close of the second quarter, after a first session of ineffective punt-dueling and conservative offensive tactics by both factions.

Creighton had taken Dakota's punt to the mid-way mark, and a pass, Lane to Bendelage, put the ball on the thirty-five yard chalk line. Creighton went back on a five-yard penalty, but Lane smashed through the Coyote outposts for the entire yardage.

Speicher, Manley and Yechout placed the oval ten units nearer with three beautiful line-bucks.

Lane took the pigskin to the west side of the lot with a short gain. Then the Blue pilot called for a pass. The Hilltop backs streaked to the left in pretended anticipation of the throw, drawing Dakota defense away from the edge of the gridiron.

Bendelage slipped over the goal line on his flank and Lane snapped the leather fifteen yards for a perfect placement in the paws of the powerful end. The ruse had worked. Lane added the seventh point with his successful place-kick from scrimmage.

Captain Harmon, of the Dakotans, tore off the most sensational run of the day in returning Creighton's kick-off at the start of the second half. Scallin, Dakota left end, was also conspicuous in the last minutes of the same quarter. His uncanny judgment of Creighton's pet trick plays downed the Blue leather carriers twice in succession behind the line of scrimmage.

The invaders showed their best team form when they smashed through the Blue battle line for a pair of yardage completions at the start of the last quarter. The Creighton mentors had sent in a number of reserves, though, which was probably responsible for the temporary weakness.

Art Logan, Creighton center, stopped the Dakota advance by intercepting a desperate pass attempt on the visitors' last down. Yechout piled over a line-drive of eight yards; Paynter took a long pass, and the Blue machine started for the goal in earnest, just as the final whistle terminated the conflict.

SCHABINGER MAKES PLANS

Mr. Schabinger, director of athletics announces that classes in boxing and swimming will be held twice a week in the gymnasium. Boxing and swimming are new ventures in Creighton but are looked upon with great favor by the students.

Mr. Denny Ryan has been secured to teach the ambitious ones how to side-step and otherwise prove the theory that it is better to give than to receive. Be it remembered that Denny has quite a reputation as an artist in the squared circle. Not so long ago one of the students in the Dental College was called upon to meet Denny in a K. of C. boxing exhibition. Logan, the student, forgot the affair was an exhibition so took it upon himself to introduce Denny to a good trouncing. Logan is doing well, thank you. The classes in boxing will be held on Tuesday and Thursday evenings from five o'clock until six o'clock. To date sixty-one students have signed up for boxing. Wrestling classes will be held at the same hour as the boxing classes but as yet Mr. Schabinger has not announced the instructor in this department. Twenty-two students have signified their intention of learning how to crush bones in the latest fashion.

Mr. Floyd Paynter will supervise the swimming classes. Those students who do not know how to swim will meet at seven-thirty o'clock and the advanced students will meet at eight-thirty o'clock Wednesday and Friday evenings. Mr. Paynter has had considerable experience as a life guard and at the present time holds the record for swimming the length of Carter Lake.

send a junior classman in order to insure the fullest use of the ideas gleaned at this meeting. Albert K. Stevens of the Dental school was chosen to represent Creighton. The Union did not apply for admission, however, since the committee believed such a step should be passed on by the students. Mr. Stevens returned from this meeting with many excellent suggestions, and with the assurance that if Creighton applied for admission, she would be favorably considered.

The Creighton University Union elections were held in all departments from May 3 to 5, inclusive. The majority of the student body availed themselves of their new balloting privilege. Every department seemed satisfied with the candidates picked by the organization committee, as none of them petitioned a third to make the race.

The following men were elected: Albert K. Stevens, Dentistry; William P. Nolan, Law; Thomas Berry, Pharmacy; Julius J. Berger, Arts; Adolph E. Swoboda, Commerce; Benjamin Ewing, Medicine. At a meeting held by the Board of Governors on Sunday, May 7, 1922, the officers and committees were chosen, which were to define the action of the new Union for this year. Albert K. Stevens was elected President of the Creighton University Union; William Nolna, Vice-President; Julius Berger, Secretary; and Thomas Berry, Treasurer. Messrs. Nolan, Berry, and Stevens were appointed to act in the capacity of Finance Committee. Rev. Charles A. Schuetz, S. J., joined this group as Faculty Member of the Board of Governors.

Before the close of the year Charles B. Morearty was selected as House Manager of the Union. His work since that time has shown how well the choice was made. Over forty men have already found work through the Union employment office; one of the most successful "pep" meetings ever staged at Creighton was held in the Gym last Friday evening; a dance, free to Union members, in honor of the Freshmen of all departments, is scheduled for the evening of the Hamline game. These are a few of the activities carried on by Mr. Morearty, under the direction of the Union Board. In addition the Union has spent over a thousand dollars in repainting its new quarters, and in re-surfacing the floor of the small ball-room in the Gym. This room will be available for class and for fraternity parties.

The Union has an extensive program mapped out for this year. While it might be too premature for the present to reveal every detail of its plans, we can state authoritatively that three more smokers, bigger and better than that of Friday night, will be pulled off in the course of the year. In addition, four University Proms will be staged for Union members. These Proms will dispense with subscription dances. The Union will also manage the various "pep" meetings, and work for organized cheering.

INTER-FRAT COUNCIL NOW FUNCTIONING

It is a well-known fact that the fraternities at Creighton have been handicapped and oft embarrassed because of the lack of some organization, some central association, to serve as a clearing house for the exchange of opinions, and the regulation of student activities insofar as matters pertaining to the welfare of all fraternities were concerned.

Fraternities, like all other groups of men who have a common purpose and a common ideal, are naturally ambitious. This ambition is praiseworthy for it is the incentive for greater achievements in scholarly pursuits. When accompanied by fair methods it is a benefit to all parties to the contest. The competitors, both winners and losers, are the better because of knowledge gained. The school benefits in that a higher standard of scholarship prevails. Non-fraternity men too, are spurred to outdo the efforts of the fraternity associates.

A certain degree of caution of suspicion is necessarily connected with interfraternity programs. Hence all will recognize the delicacy of undertaking to bring all the fraternities into an association that will be vested with adequate power, and still be expressly prevented from interfering in those activities which are distinctly of individual concern. Fully aware of the difficulties in the way and yet actuated by a knowledge that such an organization was absolutely necessary, the Inter-Fraternity Council last year began its work.

This Council is composed of a regularly chosen representative from each fraternity at Creighton. The University is represented by one member. It is agreed that this Council shall only take cognizance of those matters which are of general interest. The Council will endeavor to make known the true purpose of fraternities, and to do what it can to suppress the false impressions which are unfortunately so prevalent. Friendly competition is to be encouraged and all are to be given an equal chance. Fair means are to be prescribed, and the honor of the fraternities relied upon. A rule has been made to the effect that no professional fraternity shall pledge a man while he is taking a preparatory course. The Faculty believe that in this way a man will have an opportunity to avail himself of the entire liberalizing influence which a course in the Arts and Science Department is designed to give him. He will not retard his studies on the Hill as merely secondary, and hence of slight importance, but will have an opportunity to fully appreciate their real value; to more fully understand their importance as distinct studies and branches of learning.

NURSES GIVE DANCE

The Nurses' Alumnae Association of St. Joseph's Hospital gave a benefit dance in the Gym Tuesday evening, October 3. A lively crowd enjoyed the hospitality of the nurses, at this, the first of a series of dances. The generally expressed satisfaction with the dance clearly indicates that the series will be successful, both from a financial and social standpoint.

It is rumored that several students, and student doctors were placed in most embarrassing dilemmas. Erstwhile inconsistency in the bestowing of their affections or attentions rendered the selection of a partner a somewhat hazardous undertaking.

MED. SCHOOL SWAMPED WITH APPLICATIONS

Up to the close of registration, Sept. 23rd, a total of 155 duly credentialed applications were received at the Registrar's office for admission to the Medical School. These applications were received from former students of schools all over the country, from the University of California on the west, extending across the continent to that of New York on the east, among which are former students of the universities of Colorado, Minnesota, Iowa, Illinois, Columbia, and Long Island College. Due to the limitation of the Freshman class to 43 members many were turned away, and one new member only was admitted to both the sophomore and junior classes.

The Freshman class is a very likely looking crowd and undoubtedly as time goes on some of them will attain such prominence in their chosen profession that they will be mentioned in "Who's Who in Medicine." On the other hand, judging from the experience of previous Freshman classes, others will come in to more or less prominence in even shorter lengths of time, and possibly before the current year is over their name will be added to that ever-growing list in "Who's Through in Medicine."

Pat: "Did you attend Casey's funeral?"
Mike: "Oi did."
Pat: "Was you one of the mourners?"
Mike: "Oi was. . . somebody stole my hat."

DENTISTRY OFFERS SUPPORT

It is with a degree of respect for the achievements and prestige of our predecessors, a profound faith in the attempts of the present, and a sincere hope for success in the future, that the dental student body have embarked upon another year. What this session holds for them in the way of closer fellowship, worthier principles, and keener judgment they believe rests upon the shoulders of our new organization, the Student Union. The dental student is apparently well pleased with the progress of the Union thus far.

It is a pleasure and an honor for the dental school to be privileged to make its contribution to the Union in the form of a competent and attractive person titled "The President." Stevens, we are proud to know, is "the man for the job." The "Dents" are willing to follow in his footsteps and lend their support whenever it is needed.

PHARMACY IN FULL SWING

The School of Pharmacy has hung out the "full house" sign used by the other departments of the university. Dean Newton announces an enrollment of approximately 110 students in the various courses,—the largest in point of numbers for the past ten years.

The Pharmacy department is offering this fall, for the first time, a course leading to the Bachelor of Science Degree. Francis E. Maher, and Carl A. Pulte are the seniors registered for this course. The juniors who will be known as Pharmaceutical Chemists, on completing this year's work are: E. J. Schulte, S. H. Parquet, L. N. Heimann, and J. P. McKeon. There are more than 60 Freshmen.

MISSED AT DENTAL COLLEGE

The Dental student body accepted the report of Dr. J. S. Foote's illness this summer with a great deal of sympathy for the doctor and an earnest hope that he would soon be able to return to us. When, however, it learned of the severity of his malady and that he would be unable to return to the college to resume his duties this year, it suffered a feeling that might be described as deep sorrow. Although the students appear to be as full of life and as happy as they have ever been, yet deep down in their hearts they cannot help but feel the loss of what they believe to be one of the greatest research men of the present age. That Dr. Foote may speedily regain his health and may return to his work, which apparently he alone is able to complete, is our hope.

AMICUS CURIAE'S
SCRIBBLINGS

Tony of the Omaha Bar (no, he is not a relative of John Corn), has just found out that even a lawyer must have a little knowledge of grammar.

Mariano Doliano just writes from California, the great, growing, glorious commonwealth of fruit, gold, silver, lumber, made to order climates, movie stars, fake stock promoters, automobiles, horses, asses, mules, and bathing girls, the following telegram: "If the amount of liquor being prescribed for medicinal purposes is any criterion, the United States is the one sick spot on the globe." Hope to see you soon Marion—bring your prescription pads along.

Just before going to press a certain dapper and elusive individual known as Darby Hicks informs us that he is with us to stay and that he knows a few boys from Remsen, Blair and other places out in the Styx and that he intends to disclose some of their past histories. Aha!
